FOREWORD

An outstanding group of objects of Chinese Antiquity has been consigned by Mr. Paul Houo of "Ta-Kou-Tchai," Peking, for unrestricted sale. Although this is Mr. Houo's first visit to the United States, he has long been known here as an unquestioned expert in ancient Chinese Art, and his handsome shop in Peking filled with rare and beautiful objects of art, collected by him in more than twenty-five years' research and excavations, is well known to many travelled American connoisseurs.

Mr. Houo's consignment embraces a variety of objects, most of which are rare and valuable. Among the notable pieces are the following:

A Stone Sculpture of "walled city" form of the Northern Wei Period, showing nude figures forbidden since remote antiquity in China.

A Stone Stela (or tablet) showing the Single-Horn Dragon, and nude figures. Eastern Han Period.

Wood Sculpture of "Kuan-Yin," "God of Mercy," heroic size. Tang Period.

Bronze Bowl on a square bronze stand: Shang Period, a thousand years before Christ.

Five-Color Painting on Silk of Two Girls in a Garden: Kang-Hsi Period.

A particularly interesting feature, and worthy of the connoisseur's attention is the collection of early Chinese Roll Paintings. It has been long since Chinese Paintings and Embroidered Pictures of the Sung Period of such rarity and value have been offered for sale by auction in the United States.

Likewise the Chinese "Golden Gospels" of Yuan and Sung Periods, the Bronze Bowls and Jars with their patina of antiquity, their ancient carved design and character decoration, are noteworthy; and all will be found to be extremely fine.

Every piece has been carefully and accurately described by Mr. Houo, who guarantees dates and attributions to be correct, thus giving confidence to the intending buyer who may be reasonably certain that he can exercise the widest choice, knowing that he can make no mistake.

The "sacrifice" system of China is known to have been practised from remotest antiquity: from the Hsia Dynasty to the present day. This is their custom of placing in the tomb at the time of burial their most precious articles of use and beauty. This habit became fastened on the people in every station in life from the nobility to the lower classes.

Thus thousands of various works of art were buried in China to show filial homage and respect to the dead ancestors. Hence the quantity of Chinese Antiques excavated from native tombs, or underground, such as now fill the Museums of the East, Europe and America.

As Mr. Houo desired to prove the evolution of Chinese Art, he published in Peking, a little more than a year ago, a volume in French entitled "Preuves des Antiquites de Chine," a study of Chinese Archaeological research from the dawn of history to the present day, with definite and unquestionable evidence determining the genuineness of the objects of all the antiquities of China described and illustrated therein. Selections in English from this volume will be found in the pamphlet enclosed with the catalogue.

Many of the pieces illustrated in this volume will be exhibited here and sold in this sale.

In addition, an innovation is proposed never before offered to the Amateur Collector or the Expert. SIDE BY SIDE WITH THE ORIGINALS IN BRONZE, WOOD, PORCELAIN AND CLOISONNE ARE SHOWN CLEVER FORGERIES. These forgeries, of course, are not for sale, but are exhibited in the interest of the collector, so that he may compare the imitation with the original, and thus prove for himself the genuineness of the antiquity of the original pieces.

NUMBER 48

54. THREE WHITE JADE PEN-HEADS Wu-Ti

(Illustrated on page 2)

55. THREE "OX-BONE" SLIPS Wu-Ti

Each inscribed with the most ancient Chinese characters known. Genuine and very rare.

NUMBER 56

STONE SCULPTURE

56. STONE SCULPTURE Eastern (Later) Han
Stela or Tablet, shaped top, carved and incised with figures of Buddhistic angels and animals, including Monkey, Rabbit, Single Horn Dragon (which differs from the twin "double horn dragon" design of later periods), proof of antiquity. Inscribed with the original Indian Monk's name in Chinese characters. Height 60 inches, width 29 inches
(Illustrated)

NUMBER 57

57. STONE SCULPTURE Northern Wei

In the form of a "walled city"; square form, and terraced, the exits guarded by mythological figures. The relief carving on the sides incorporating nude figures proves its ancient origin from the Northern (Indian) Monks; the nude being an attribute of Indian Art, and prohibited in China for centuries.

42 x 42 inches, height 22 inches

(Illustrated)

IMPORTANT WOOD SCULPTURES

58. SMALL WOOD SCULPTURE Ming

Represents the lame God "Li-Tih-Kuai" with his stick and gourd.

An exceptional piece in expression, every detail perfect.

Height 9 inches

NUMBER 59

59. Polychrome Wood Sculpture Tang

Heroic standing figure of "Kuan-Yin," God of Mercy. Impressive nobility of line, the undulating lines of the robe caught and held at the side by a leafy garland, graceful as in nature. With much of the original decoration of painting in color and gold gilding.

Height 93 inches, width (shoulder) 24 inches

(Illustrated)

Number 60

60. Wood Sculpture Tang

Seated figure of "Kwan-Yin," life size, one extended arm resting lightly on the raised knee: showing the original decoration of gold gilding.

Height 35 inches, width (shoulder) 17 inches

(Illustrated)

61. Wood Sculpture Tang

Seated figure of "Kwan-Yin," life size, showing the original decoration of gold gilding. Hands missing and showing other ravages of time. Height 32 inches, width (shoulder) 14 inches

77 62

62. Leather Shoe of Unusual Form Wu-Ti

Excavated in Chen-Chou-Fu, Province of Ho-Nan, China: the bronze "Yu" or pot (See No. 77) found in the same cave.

Length 11 inches

This shoe, which has acquired a lime-stone like consistency from being buried since remote antiquity, bears no resemblance to any style of foot-wear pictured on tomb-brick, stone stela, or other ancient Chinese monuments. It has no similarity to the footwear of the people from the most ancient through continuous dynasties. Its antiquity is proved by these three points:

1. No such footwear on ancient monuments.
2. No such footwear known in China by the people.
3. Its gradual transformation into the petrified or lime-stone like consistency in which Mr. Houo discovered it.

(Illustrated)

NUMBER 64

ARCHAIC BRONZE

63. BRONZE MEDALLION Eastern (Later) Han

Decorated in the "Single-Horn Dragon" design, exactly the same as on the Han tile No. 64.

Obverse—Single horn Dragon.

Reverse—Relief of Roman inscription. This was deciphered for Mr. Houo by Dr. Hobson, Director of Ethnology and Ceramics of the British Museum, as ancient Roman letters of the Second Century A.D.

Diameter 2¼ inches

64. TILE Han

Circular, with decoration of the "Single-Horn Dragon" design, the most ancient form known in archaeology of the Sacred Dragon of China.

The design is identical with that of the bronze medallion No. 63. Diameter 7½ inches

(Illustrated)

NUMBER 65

65. BRONZE FORM OF BUDDHA Tang

Pierced "nimbus" or fan shape, with decoration in relief of many forms of Buddha in miniature. Very unusual form, no other such piece having been found by Mr. Houo in his many years of research. Accompanied by a Small Pottery Tablet, shaped top with relief of Buddha, and characters on the reverse.

Bronze 9½ x 6 inches
Pottery 2 x 1½ inches

(Two pieces, illustrated)

66. BRONZE MANDATE Tsin Shih-Huang-Ti

With inscription, ordering uniformity in the weights of balance, by direction of the Chinese Emperor who built the "Great Wall of China."

Valuable as showing the evolution of the balance from wood to bronze. Length 4 inches, width 2⅞ inches

67. Bronze Mandate Tsin
"Weight of balance" with inscription the same as in the preceding lot. Length 1¾ inches, height 1¼ inches

68. Bronze Weight of Balance Tang
Length 1⅜ inches, height 3½ inches

69. Bronze Seals Han
Bronze official seals of the "Governor" (two pieces).
1 x 1 x 1 inches

70. Bronze Seals Han
Seals of Military Officials (ten pieces). 1 x 1 x 1 inches

71. Bronze Seal Han
Official seal of "Ti." 1 x 1 x 1 inches

72. Bronze Seal Wei
Official seal of "Ti," of Wei, known as the Epoch of Three Kingdoms.

73. Bronze Seal Han
Sliding seal (in two pieces).

74. Silver Seal Han
½ x ½ x ½ inches

75. Bronze Seal Yuan

76. Bronze Seals Han - Tang
Fifteen pieces.

77. Bronze "Yu" (Pot) Wu-Ti
Bronze tripod with inscriptions, which show an antiquity so remote as practically to prohibit ever finding again so fine a piece in such splendid state of preservation. It can truly be characterized as "unique."
Height 8, diameter 7 inches
(Illustrated on page 14)

79 78

78. Bronze "Yu" (Pot) Huang-Ti
Inscribed with characters which appear on the "ox-bone," "turtle-shell" and other moneys of this remote period. Primitive piece of the utmost rarity.
Height 10 inches, diameter 9 inches
(Illustrated)

79. Bronze Vase Huang-Ti
Trumpet shape, with various archaic ornaments and letters of the Huang-Ti Period. Made for ancestor-worship. Finely molded piece of this remote period and of the utmost rarity.
Height 9½, diameter 8 inches
(Illustrated)

NUMBER 80

80. BRONZE "YU" (Pot) Hsia

The "concave" characters with which this primitive piece is inscribed are an important step in the evolution of Chinese characters, and a proof of antiquity, so desirable in the development of its archaeology.

(Illustrated)

Height 8, diameter 12 inches

NUMBER 81

81. BRONZE "TING" (Bowl) AND STAND Shang

A bronze bowl beautifully modelled from remote antiquity, deeply ridged or "reeded" on a square stand to match. Its unusual beauty heightened by its square stand. These "Ting" or bowls are usually found in tripod form, and this is the only piece so mounted ever seen by Mr. Houo. No similar piece is in any of the museums of the Far East or in Europe.

Height 12, stand 10 x 10 inches

(Illustrated)

Number 82

82. Bronze and Jade Royal Emblem Chou

Bronze royal emblem in "hatchet" form inlaid with jade. Not a weapon but an emblem of a Viceroy. According to Chou-Li (Chinese authority on archaeology): "The Viceroy who obtained the yellow hatchet from the emperor, could carry it in front of him to show that he had the authority to kill any one without the mandate of the emperor." A very unusual piece.

Height 7, diameter 5 inches

(Illustrated)

NUMBER 83

83. PEWTER BOWL Han
With two ear handles and four curved legs. Bronze of the Han period is not unknown but objects in pewter are very rare.
Height 7, width 8 inches
(Illustrated)

SILVER, PORCELAIN AND LACQUER

84. THREE SILVER ANIMALS Han
Archaic form with long neck, raised head and four legs.
Height 3, width 2 inches

85. PORCELAIN JAR ("Five-color") Sung
It is unnecessary to comment on the rarity of a "five-color" porcelain of the Sung period. Height 4, diameter 4 inches

86. PORCELAIN "FIVE-COLOR" POT Yuan
Genuine period piece and very rare.
Height 4½, diameter 4 inches

87. Porcelain Pot ("Five-color") Wan-Li
Height 7, diameter 8 inches

88. Pair Lacquer Dishes (Flower Shape) Ming
Floral decoration in gold, silver and "mother-of-pearl" inlay.
Rarely found of this period. Diameter 5 inches
